Cadet Whittaker's redirect examination occupied the Court-Martial yesterday for about half an bour. Two of his handkerchiefs were produced, to show the way in which he was accustomed to mark them. He showed the place of the abrasion on his forehead, which he thought could not have been produced by a tight cap. The trousers which were found in his overcoat sleeve he had not seen before for several months. Ex-Governor Chamberlain inquired:

"What was the difficulty with Cadet Burnett of Which you spoke?"

"I reported him, in the summer encampment, for assumption of authority in entering my tent when he had no right to do so."

"What trouble had you with Macdonald?"

"I had a personal difficulty with him in the gymnasium, in which he struck me. He was court-martialed, and sentenced to be dismissed."

"How about Blake?"

"He quarrelled with me because I once put on his sen by mustake." WHAT WHITTAKER ENDURED.

quarrelled with me because I once put on his mistake."

The quarrelied with me because I once put on his cap by mistake."

Whitaker raid he had been treated at the Academy in an ungentlemanlike manner, had been refused recognition, and had been deprived of common civilities. He had never been so treated elsewhere, nor did be know of any one, whose character was unimpugned, ever having been so treated. He had been born a slave in South Carolina, and had lived in other places, but only at West Point had he received such treatment. The Judge-Advocate then preceded to the recross-examination.

"Did the cadeta ever refuse to obey you at march or to wait upon you at table?"

"No, sir, the rules prevented."

"Did you ever make complaints of discourtesy in the mess-hall?"

"No, sir. I always felt above their insults."

"No, sir." I always felt above their insults."
"You were insulted, then?"
"Certainly I was, sir."
"Did you ever say good morning to any of the white cadets?"
"No, sir."
"Don't you thin."

"No, sir."
"Don't you think, then, that you treated them with discourtesy?"
"I do not think so, sir."
The Court desired Whittaker to copy under its own inspection a note presented to him. He did so, first with a long pencil, holding it between the fore-finger and the middle finger, and afterward, in part, with a short pencil between the finger and thumb. He was then dismissed from the winces stand.

Several witnesses were then examined to show the uncertainty of expert testimony.

RIOTOUS CHINESE WORKMEN.

One of the first to precure Chinese labor from California was Captain Hervey, who kept a large steam landry at Believille, New-Jersey. Captain Hervey hired Chinese labor in 1870 and at one time had over 200 in his scaploy. He failed in business en 1874 and has since died. The laundry passed into the hands of a Mr. Casebolt, who began to introduce white labor in the laundry, but retained the most of his Chinese hands. He has had considerable difficulty with the latter. They repeatedly violated his rules. Last week on Wednesday one of the Chinamen was discharged for cause, whereupon his countrymen told Mr. Casebolt that they would quit work if their foreman, Ah Sing, was net discharged. This being refused, they quit work and threatened to kill Ah Sing. They were noisy and troublesome in their quarters, and made a demonstration in their quarters, and made a demonstration in their yard. Mr. Casebolt told them that they would be punished if they injured Ah Sing. When a constable arrived he put one of the ringleaders, Ging Jock, in Irona. The others went to their quarters, but threatened to kill any one of their number that went to work until the foreman was discharged. The white employes continued at work and were not interfered with. Mr. Casebolt finally bade the Chinamen quit the place, and they marched to the depot in aingle file and departed. On Monday twenty of the number returned and said they would obey the rules, and they were returned to work, but he will fill their places with white men and women. When the Chinamen went away they left their Joss in their quarters, saying they dare not take it away.

Mr. Casebolt said Thursday that he was glad the Chinamen went away they left their Joss in their quarters, and full of nameless vices. He had no and careless, and full of nameless vices. He had no RIOTOUS CHINESE WORKMEN.

Mr. Casebolt said Thursday that he was glad the Chinese were gone. They were surly, treacherous and careless, and full of nameless vices. He had no faith in their conversion to Christianity, and they speut their time every Sunday playing cards and gambling. A number left him and went to Jamesburg in 1877, but their employer there soon got rid of them, and no one was employing them now. They take uo interest in the welfare of the bosses, and are neater and better ironers. They earn good wages and work ten hours per day, and there is employment all the year.

ADJUSTING A CITY'S DEBT.

The proposition of the principal creditors of Eliz-The proposition of the principal creditors of Elizabeth, N. J., for 4 per cent interest has met with general disfavor on the part of the faxpavers. A committee which was appointed to consider some scheme of adjustment has submitted to the Elizabeth Common Council a plan which has met with the unanimous approval of the committee and is now being discussed by Elizabeth taxpayers. The proposed plan of adjustment may be stated as follows:

1. 1881 972,000

The assets consist of:
Arrears of taxes. $540,000
Arrears of assessments. 1.700,000
Estimated good for. 1.200,000
It is proposed to refund the face amount of the debt, say $5,400,000, for forty years, at the following rates:

The operation of this plan would result as follows:

Interest 2 percent on $5,400,000. $210,000 Sinking Fund ½ per cent on same amount......

This would require a tax rate of 2.87½ per cent at present and for the balance of the term of five years, unless reduced by an increase in valuation. After five years an increase in valuation of three millions would reduce the tax below a 2.75 rate, not with standing the increase of 1 per cent in the rate of interest on the debt.

UNEASY ABOUT THEIR WAGES. The lockout of the seventy-five tailors of John Paterson's shop continues unchanged. Eforts are making by the firm to secure other workmen, but with little success. About fifteen men of inferior akill have been found to take the places of the strikers. The committee in charge of the strike is taking quiet but, it is thought, effective measures to make the movement for an advance of wages a successful one.

The officers of the bricklayers' unions have issued a card forbidding all union men to work where non-union men are employed.
The Bluestone Cutters and Flaggers' Association held a meeting last evening at Twenty-sixth-st, and Seventh-ave, to consider plans for better organization and for more concerted action in the question of wages. The association intends to insust upon an equitable rate of wages, which, it is stated, its members do not now receive.

A HUSBAND AND WIFE DESERTED.

Withelm Juchler, of Stuttgart, Wurtemburg, visited Castle Gurden yesterday in search of his lost wife, and asked that the Commissioners of Emigration should assist him. His wife, he said, came to New-York, where she met Friedrich Battier, a farmer employed by Juchler, with whom she had been intimate. The two disappeared. The committee has received favorable accounts from Atlanta, and the Exposition promises to be an interesting and successful affair. Norfolk has taken $2,500 of stock, and Baltimore $7,500.

COMPLAINTS NOT SUSTAINED. Emigration Commissioners Ulrich, Starr and Hauselt and Secretary Jackson conducted an investigation of a complaint of five of the steerage passengers in regard to their treatment on the steamship Furnessia, which arrived Wednesday from Glasgow. They stated in the complaint that they had never crossed the ocean before. In the first part of the voyage, they said, the sone was poor, the meat was of the toughest kind, the notatoes were half cooked and rotten, the tea and coffee were weak, and the butter was no better than common grease. The five persons making the affidavit failed to appear.

The five persons making the amdavit failed to appear.

Mr. Coverly, agent of the Anchor Line, Captain J. J. Small, Steward David Muir and Steerage Steward Richard Lander appeared in behalf of the company. Mr. Coverly presented a testimonial from a hundred of the scandinavian passengers, who had crossed the ocean several times, to the effect that the Furnessia was one of the best and most comfortable vessels eneaged in ocean traffic; that the steerage passengers were shown every civility both by the officers and crew; that there was plenty of food and that the steward was always present to see that it was properly served. Steward Muir brought samples of cooked meat, potatoes and bread served to the steerage passengers, which were pronounced to be of geod quality.

The complaint was dismissed as not sustained, and the Commissioners were invited to inspect the Furnessia at their convenience.

A DANGEROUS BLAST.

A DANGEROUS BLAST.

A gang of workmen is employed in the lots at Seventy-third-st, and Second-ave, blasting rock. Yeaterday morning a blast that was charged too heavily went off before it was properly secured. The concussion breke nearly every pane of glass in the houses within the distance of a block, and the stones, flying in all directions, did much damage. A piece of rock knocked Patrick Maloney, of No. 515 East Seventy-fourth-st., from his truck, which was in Seventy-second-st., and injured him severely. Another piece shattered the heavy plate glass windows in Edward Reilly's liquor store; a third struck Officer Quigley, of the Twenty-eighth Precinct, in the back while he stood in Second-ave. Flying stones went through the windows of S. Herschell's shoe store at No. 1,400 Second-ave., and the alling glass cut his two children, who were there. The police arrested Michael Monahan, the foreman in charge of the work. Patrick Farley is the contractor. Monahan was taken before Justice Kilbreth, at the Yorkville Police Court, who committed him for trial.

THE SEAWANHAKA JURY DISAGREES.

The jurors in the case of the Steamboat Inspectors, Austin Jayne and John K. Matthews, indicted under the Revised Statutes for falsely ceruifying that the Seawanhaka's outhit was in conformity with the law, were discharged from further consideration of the case by order of Jurige Benedict at 11 o'clook last night, after having been out for thirty-two hours. Judge Benedict had left word with Deputy Marshal Holmes before leaving the Post Office Building at 5 o'clock it the afternoon that the jury should either render a scaled verdict or be discharged at 11 o'clock if they should fail to agree. The jury stood at the close of its deliberations ten to two for conviction upon all of the six counts of the indictment, and it is said to have stood so from the begining. John Breslin, of No. 15 Bible House, a broker, and James J. Richards, a jeweiler, doing business at No. 182 Broadway, are said to have been the two jurers who favored the discharge of the indicted Inspectors.

DR. NEWMAN'S NEW CHURCH.

The Rev. Dr. J. P.
